

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY

REV. ADAM B. MILLER DIES WHILE ASLEEP IN BED.

James W. Moore, a Fairfield Postmaster for 17 Years, Passes After Brief Illness.

REV. ADAM B. MILLER, retired Lutheran minister, was found dead in bed at his home on Water street, last Saturday morning, by neighbors. The discovery was made by Miss Katie Barbehenn and William Fritz, on North Stratton street. Rev. Miller was in his seventy-ninth year, his birthday being March 4. Mr. Miller evidently died while asleep for he was in a position of repose. Ten days previously Mrs. Miller had been taken to the Annie M. Warner Hospital for treatment from a heart complaint and he began to take his dinner at the Barbehenn home and instructed her if she did not see the blinds up at noon to investigate, having a premonition of the end. On Saturday the blinds were drawn and summoning Mr. Fritz they investigated and found the aged minister dead. Rev. Miller was born at Jackson, Pa., March 4, 1844. He came to Gettysburg in 1867 and entered the Gettysburg preparatory school. Later he attended College with the class of 1873, but quit the year before graduation. He became a school teacher and studied theology privately. In 1873, he was licensed to preach and from that time until three years ago, he was an active minister in Lutheran churches in this state. In 1872, he was married to Miss Mary C. Dewey of Easton. During his life as a minister, Rev. Miller filled pulpits at Liberty, Tioga county; Glade, Somerset county; New Franklin, Cumberland county; Lyons station, Berks county, and Bedford. His charge at Bedford he resigned three years ago and moved to Gettysburg. Mr. Miller has no near relatives besides his wife. The funeral was held on Tuesday with services by Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner assisted by Rev. S. S. Shultz of Summer Hill, Pa., with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

JAMES W. MOORE, a prominent and highly respected citizen of Fairfield, died at his home at 2 o'clock last Friday from influenza and pleurisy, aged 66 years. Mr. Moore had been ill for two weeks. He was a life-long resident of Fairfield, and one of its leading citizens. For seventeen years, he was postmaster of that borough. Resigning that position eight years ago, he became affiliated with the State Highway Department and was employed at roadmaster at the time of his death. He was a life-long member of Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church. For forty years he was a member of Valley Home Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Fairfield. Mr. Moore is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Blanche Culbertson, one brother and four sisters. Mrs. Jennie Scott, of Cumberland township; Mrs. Margaret Polley, of Fairfield; Mrs. Dewey Eiker, of Knoxville, Illinois; Mrs. Abigail Cunningham, of Muskegon, Michigan; and Walter Moore of near Biglerville. Funeral services were held on Monday by Rev. W. W. Wood, pastor of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

ROBERT S. BREAM died at his home on Seminary Ridge on Wednesday evening, in his 65th year. He had been in failing health for more than a year. He was the youngest son of the late ex-Sheriff Francis Bream and his wife. The home place was along the Fairfield road at Marsh Creek and known for many years as Black Horse Tavern and the old home place became the home of Robert S. Bream, who farmed it for many years. Twenty years ago he became a travelling salesman for a Baltimore house and it was while on one of his trips for the house last year he was overcome, from which he never fully recovered. Eleven years ago he bought and moved to his home on Seminary Ridge. He still owns the farm homestead. He was married to Miss Alice E. Keller who survives with four sons and two daughters: Grover C. Bream at home; Captain Herbert A. Bream, of New York City; Flord W. Bream, of Montclair, New Jersey; Walter O. Bream, of Philadelphia; Miss Caroline Bream of Baltimore and Miss Margaret Bream of Philadelphia. He is survived by four brothers, Calvin P. Bream, of Fairfield, Hon. R. William Bream, Jacob F. Bream and Harvey D. Bream of Gettysburg. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He was a member of St. James Lutheran Church. Interment will be in the Evergreen Cemetery.

WILLIAM EYSTER died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ella Fleck, near Barlow, Thursday, aged 85 years, one month and eight days. He has been ill several weeks. He was a native of upper Adams county and until two years ago, lived near Arendtsville. Upon the death of his wife in January, 1921, he made his home with his daughter near Barlow. He is survived by one son, Harry W. Eyster, of Harrisburg; and three daughters, Mrs. Sara R. Stallsmith, of Philadelphia; Mrs. John L. Snyder of Arendtsville, and Mrs. Ella M. Fleck, of near Barlow. Funeral services were held on Saturday at the Arendtsville Lutheran church by Rev. L. K. Young, pastor of the Mt. Joy Lutheran church with interment in Arendtsville Cemetery.

JOSEPH A. OCKER, a former citizen of Littlestown died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul Gates, of Lebanon, on Monday, following an illness of over one year, aged 75 years. He was a son of Joseph and Maranda Ocker, and was born and spent his early life in Carroll County, Md., near Taneytown. In early life he engaged in the horse business, conducting a large exchange stable at Littlestown. Mr. Ocker also kept several race horses and for years was a well-known figure on race tracks of Pennsylvania with a string of famous campaigners. Entering the hotel business he conducted the Ocker House at Littlestown for a short period then going to York, where he was proprietor of the City Hotel for a number of years. He then moved to Philadelphia where he engaged in the same business for some time after which he retired, moving to Gettysburg. He was married to Miss Rose Gettler, a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Gettler, residing near Littlestown, who preceded him in death about five years ago. Since the death of his wife he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Gates, in Lebanon. He leaves four daughters, Mrs. Prudence Stonesifer of York; Mrs. George Hartman of Gettysburg; Mrs. Benjamin Kindig, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Paul Gates, of Lebanon; also one son, Joseph Ocker, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Krug, of Littlestown. The body was taken to Littlestown on Thursday and interment made in the Littlestown Cemetery by the side of his wife, services by Rev. H. Clay Bergstresser.

HENRY DIEHL, an aged citizen of New Oxford, died at the Harrisburg State Hospital on Friday of last week. Mr. Diehl had been an inmate of that institution for the past six months, having sustained a fracture of his leg, which, together with infirmities caused his death at the age of 82 years. He was a son of the late Joseph and Mary Diehl and spent his entire life in New Oxford where he was employed as a machinist. His wife, who was Miss Sarah Spangler, of York, died seven years ago. He leaves on son, Edward H. Diehl, residing in Mercedes, Texas; a brother, Alexander Diehl, of New Oxford. The body was taken to New Oxford on Tuesday morning, from where the funeral was held, Tuesday, services by Rev. W. M. Allison of the First Lutheran Church, and interment in the New Oxford Cemetery.

JOHN P. WALTERS, residing on the W. J. Stoner farm, one mile east of New Oxford, died almost instantly on Thursday evening after eating his supper. He was aged 47 years and 6 months. Mr. Walters was apparently in good health during the day and complained of no illness when he sat down to the evening meal. He was farmer of the Stoner place. Mr. Walters, who was a bachelor, leaves no near relatives. Funeral was on Monday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, New Oxford, by the Rev. J. B. Shanahan, with interment in the Catholic Cemetery, New Oxford.

HELP WANTED IN GETTYSBURG
And Furnished by the Help of Gettysburg People.

Those who suffer with kidney backache, urinary ills or any little kidney or bladder disorder, want kidney help. Who can better advise than some Gettysburg resident, who has also suffered, but has had relief. Gettysburg people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case and there are many others.

Charles Rosensteel, prop. blacksmith shop, 315 S. Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "I am a blacksmith and I believe the heavy work I did was the cause of my kidney trouble. My kidneys were sore and there were times when they felt like lumps of lead pressing against me. Daring pains bothered me when I bent over to place a shoe. My back was often stiff and lame, but the main trouble was with my kidneys. The kidney secretions seemed to be filled with a heavy, sandy-like substance and were too scanty in passage. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a couple of boxes. By the time I had used them, my back was all right. The kidney secretions were cleared up and the soreness left my kidneys. I was fixed up in a first-class way."

Molly's Great Luck

By HARRIET BRUNKHURST

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Molly Pelton's faith in her luck was a wee bit shaken when she saw that decrepit old rocker among her future household possessions and was apologetically informed by her soon-to-be-husband that they'd have to keep it.

"With everything else so wonderful I ought not to make a fuss over a little thing like that," said Molly, cheerfully.

"You are some girl," said John, heartily, giving a rueful look at the old rocker.

"The fairies look after me every minute," declared Molly. "Of course I don't count you as luck—you just happened. But this absolutely perfect bungalow vacated just when we need it in a town where there isn't a house to rent on any terms!"

"Then, with furniture so expensive that I couldn't see any way out, your father sends along all this lovely old mahogany, oak and walnut. We are lucky!"

"Barring the rocker," said John. "It ought by rights to be chopped into kindling wood. I don't know why dad saved it, except that he always liked to sit in it on the back porch."

"Then to the back porch it goes," said Molly, stanchly.

John rushed away then, but Molly stayed to plan the arrangement of her newly uncrated household treasures. First she took the old rocker to the back porch. Since she was alone she permitted an expression of dismay to escape. Against the spick-and-span porch the old chair, with its grimy, cracked varnish and broken cane was certainly grotesque.

"My neighbors won't like looking at it," sighed Molly. "If only I could keep it inside and cover it with chintz—but John said the back porch. I might paint it white," she added.

Glancing up she glimpsed a pink-clad figure upon a neighboring porch. "Y-hoo-o!" she called gayly. "Come on over!"

Mrs. Starling, crisply dainty in her house frock, smilingly accepted the invitation.

"I'm investigating this old chair," explained Molly. "Looks like a misfit, doesn't it?"

"I've always loved those high-backed rockers," said Mrs. Starling. "Ours at home was most comfortable."

"Looks Like a Misfit, Doesn't It?"

Ours did not have a carved back," she added thoughtfully. "I wonder—" She tipped the old chair over and looked at the unfinished wood beneath.

"I thought so!" she cried, triumphantly. "Solid mahogany!"

"And it is ruined," mourned Molly. "Wait a minute," said Mrs. Starling, turning back to her own house and reappearing presently with a bottle and a handful of clean rags. "De-natured alcohol. Watch me make a magic!"

She dampened a rag with the fluid, then rubbed lightly a small portion of the grayish, cracked surface of the chair.

"Look!" she exclaimed.

A spot an inch wide and two inches long showed the clean bare wood, the reddish brown of unfinished mahogany. "It is up to us," she said, cheerfully. "Stay for luncheon with me, and we'll reclaim this old aristocrat."

It was a sticky, messy task, and it was late afternoon before the chair stood revealed, pure mahogany in its every stick.

"Now it needs only a refinishing coat of varnish or wax," said Mrs. Starling. "Then reclaiming will complete a good job."

"Wax," said Molly. "I've had enough varnish to last the rest of my life!"

"Still," Mrs. Starling spoke thoughtfully, "only the varnish saved it from ruin through exposure on the back porch. So there you are! And it will take an hour to restore our hands!"

"Its very lines seem more graceful," marveled Molly.

"Naturally. It had a clown's make-up; it couldn't look like itself."

Molly nodded assent.

"On Chestnut street there is a blind man who canes chairs," she said. "I'll send it over there this afternoon and surprise John."

Despite the hour spent upon their hands John noticed that Molly's were not quite as usual that evening.

"What have you been doing with your hands?" he demanded.

"Oh, splitting kindling wood!" said Molly, evasively.

"That is my job," said John. "Don't do it again. Shall we stroll over to the bungalow?"

"Not this evening. I am too tired," said Molly truthfully.

When they went to their prospective home for their next inspection Molly was relieved that John did not remark upon the absence of the chair.

"Where's your kindling wood?" he asked.

"Kindling wood?" repeated Molly, vaguely, as she pulled open a drawer in the secretary. Then, excitedly, "Oh, John, look!"

In her excitement over an exquisite inlaid box she failed to notice a shadow upon John's face, and he had cleared it away when he asked:

"You like the things, don't you?"

"I adore them!" cried Molly. "Even the—" There she checked herself without betraying her secret.

John's father came for the wedding and was proudly escorted to the bungalow, now ready and waiting for its occupants.

"Such a wedding gift!" said Molly, softly, indicating the fine old furniture in the pleasant rooms.

"Glad you like it," said the elder man heartily. "Lots of young folks wouldn't thank you for unloading old stuff on them."

Then, with an exclamation of surprise, he strode to the sun porch, where stood the shining mahogany rocker.

"Well," he exploded. "I should think something had happened to my old chair. If that isn't a miracle!"

John stared, speechless, while Molly smiled happily.

"I thought you wouldn't mind keeping it in the background somewhere," John's father said. "for you see it was the first thing this lad's mother and I bought for our house—the very first. Mind if I sit in it?"

"You are the only one who needn't ask that," smiled Molly. "It is your own especial chair."

John's father seated himself with great deliberation, touched the smooth, curving arms, turned to look at the carved back, then fell into a reverie.

John drew Molly aside.

"You said you chopped that chair into kindling wood," he whispered.

"When?" demanded Molly.

"When I asked you why your hands were rough. So, to let the governor down easy, I told him something had happened to the old rocker—and he took it like a lamb."

"You really thought that I had destroyed that chair?" Molly was incredulous. "And you weren't angry?"

"Angry? It was my own suggestion. Besides, I couldn't have blamed you, anyhow. You had a right to destroy it," said John sturdily.

"It is as I've always said—I'm the luckiest girl in the world," said Mollie. Then, softly, "I mean about you—not furniture, nor houses, nor anything, but just you!"

ODD FOCUSING OF SOUNDS

Experiments Made at London and Washington Have Shown Phenomenon of Interest.

The curious focusing of sounds in whispering galleries, such as the domes of St. Paul's cathedral and the capitol at Washington, is a phenomenon of much interest and impressiveness. The late Lord Rayleigh obtained evidence that the sound waves followed the concave surface to the point of increased audibility, and when a source of directed sound sent off its waves tangentially, the greater concentration was observed, says the Detroit News. A bird-call being used, a small obstacle near the curved wall cut off most of the effect upon a sensitive flame.

In new experiments reported to the Royal society by G. V. Roman and G. A. Southerland, a ray of light was guided by a flexible mirror, and the reflection showed alternate bands of light and darkness. In observations with a steady source of sound at one point in the dome of St. Paul's, it was found that similar alterations of sound and comparative silence were produced at intervals of about a wave length of the sound as the ear was moved away. Very pronounced fluctuations of intensity were also noted when the observer's head was moved parallel to the curved wall, instead of radially, the effect being most marked at the side of the gallery opposite the source of sound. The sensitive flame responded to fluctuations.

Carlyle, Mirabeau and Napoleon.

Carlyle's estimate of Mirabeau and Napoleon is given in one of a collection of autograph letters. To a young woman who asked his advice as to a course of study of the two men, he wrote:

"On the whole, I do not much advise at this stage of your inquiries to either of those personages. The first (Mirabeau), with all his great gifts, is fairly definable from the other side as a mutinous, dissolute black-guard set on a high place.

"The second has a great deal of the playactor-turned-plate in his character and history; an immense gambler a la Dick Turpin, who, after all his huge reckless bettings and enormous temporary successes (more astonishing to the foolish than to the wise), ended by losing his last guinea and by being flung out of the room head foremost."

Position of France and U. S.

Americans should not become hysterical and play the game of Germany. The United States Senate displayed its usual type of sensibility in voting last Saturday 57 to 6 that it was their sense that the President should order the return of all troops now stationed in Germany.

Germany having made paper money as fast as the presses could turn it out since the War, has deliberately ruined her currency and destroyed her credit. It has been a demonstration that a League of Nations was absolutely needed to have prevented Germany playing the game of bankruptcy.

France with good reason takes the position as to Germany. Granting that your marks are worthless and that you cannot command dollars, pounds or francs, you have at least some real property. You have coal and coke, and forests and custom houses and transportation. All this is not paper but real values. We are quite ready to leave you all that you need to live and to recover, but we desire that these goods, these products these revenues, should serve as a guarantee to us and at the same time as a means of pressure upon your great industrial leaders.

If France advances into the Ruhr Valley, it is not an act of war, according to the German plan of treaties being scraps of paper to be broken according to the Teutonic will. France's advance will be in accordance to the treaty entered into by the Allies with Germany which provided the measures which the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to take, in case of voluntary default by Germany, and which Germany agrees not to regard as acts of war, may include economic and financial prohibitions and reprisals and in general such other measures as the respective Governments may determine to be necessary in the circumstances.

If war is ever to cease it will be when nations have been taught to pay reparations and when the present hysteria is over it will likely be found that France has been right again and that United States aloof plays a small game.

Purchasing Power of Farm Produce.

While Pennsylvania's farm crops in 1922 were worth $39,000,000 more than the crops of 1921, yet the purchasing power of these crops was only 65 per cent of the purchasing power of the crops of 1913, the first year preceding the European war.

"A study of farm prices prevailing in Pennsylvania on December 1," says Secretary of Agriculture Fred Rasmussen, "shows that farm products, with the exception of poultry and dairy products, have a purchasing power barely two thirds that of 1913. These products, in other words, will buy only two thirds of the articles and supplies needed by the farmer and his family."

"Among the products the purchasing power of which is two thirds or less than that of 1913, are potatoes, apples, corn and hogs. Of the ten leading products sold from Pennsylvania farms, potatoes will buy 62 per cent as much as in 1913, as much as they would prior to the war. In a number of cases slight improvement has been noted over conditions prevailing a year ago, indicating that our economic laws are again operating to restore the much needed balance between farm prices and the general price level."

GOT IDEA FOR CASH REGISTER

Original Maker of Machines Copied Device From Automatic Indicator Used on Ocean Vessels.

The invention of the cash register was due to one of those happy accidents of which only the alert mind takes advantage. A business man of Dayton, Ohio, named Jacob Ritty, had a store in a good location in that city, and it attracted many customers, yet somehow it was not profitable. He worried so much about his lack of success that a vacation became necessary, and he decided to take a trip to Europe. While on the voyage, Mr. Ritty one day visited the ship's engine room. His attention was caught by the automatic indicator which recorded the revolutions of the propeller shaft. The idea occurred to him: Why not devise a machine to record the sales in a store? Hence the cash register.

At the time of this invention John H. Patterson owned a retail shop in a small mining town near Dayton. He tried two of the machines—then of a rather crude type—and was so pleased with the results that he realized the opportunities they offered. He bought out the company that was making them, and became its president.

Lopez Real Discoverer.

Francisco Lopez, the discoverer of gold in California, died in poverty, and the place of his burial is unknown. Marshall who accidentally discovered gold in the mill race at Sutter's Ford six years afterward, was given $3,000 a year by the state and a monument of brass was erected to his memory. Sutter, who had nothing to do with the discovery, and did not own the land upon which his mill stood, also was given a pension. Lopez immediately reported his discovery to his employers. Sutter and Marshall kept the discovery a secret until they had taken possession of large tracts of land, for which they gave the Indians almost nothing. Both Sutter and Marshall knew that their claims as first discoverers of gold were false. They were adventurers, and were at San Fernando in 1846 during one of the Mexican revolutions, and had heard of the gold fields in the San Fernando district.

Real Bargains JANUARY SALE

A More Complete List from Our Ready to Wear Department

Here is a list of the many bargains we are offering in our ready to wear department. Of course there are still many items that are not listed but by a visit to this department you will see everything at a new low price level. Read the items here carefully and follow our ads week by week as to keep in touch with the money saving items we are offering.

Visit our store now and take advantage of this big sale. We know that these prices cannot be touched by other stores no matter how attractive the advertisements may read.

WOMEN'S AND MISSES COATS AT A SAVING OF ONE-THIRD AND MORE.

This is the second and final mark-down of the season in order to make a clean sweep before our annual inventory. All of them are late styles with the expert tailoring that we always insisted upon in our coat stock.

ONE-THIRD OFF.

You will also find in our stock of coats of last season many that are not out of style and at the price cut of ONE-FOURTH and less they are real bargains.

PLUSH COATS.

We still have left on our racks about 15 Plush Coats in a variety of lengths and styles. Some with deep dyed Opossum and Nutria collars and cuffs, others plain. Prices cut from $5.00 to $10.00.

CHILDREN'S COATS.

Our entire stock of Children's Coats have felt the blow of the mark-down pencil. Sizes 3 to 6 and 8 to 12, all new from this season. One-third off. The left-overs of last season at HALF and LESS.

EXTRAORDINARY OPPORTUNITY.

We have one French Seal Coat 36 inches long, with wide Nutria shawl collar and deep cuffs in size 40. Was $235.00. Sale price $150.00.

LADIES' TAILORED SUITS.

We have about 100 Ladies Tailored Suits in stock, some of them several seasons old, although in many instances the styles are similar to the present season; these are cut to much less than HALF while those of the present season are price cut at an average of ONE-THIRD. Every one of these garments are perfectly tailored and styled.

DRESSES.

We have 40 Silk and 40 Wool Dresses out of several hundred bought for this season's selling in the newest and most popular weaves. We have sold the great majority of them. They are made as carefully as the most skilled dressmaker could and created in the newest and most fashionable colors. There are no two alike and are suitable for street, dress and dinner wear.

60 Dresses of Crepes, Satins, Taffetas, Poirets and Tricotines that formerly sold from $25.00 to $50.00 now going at $9.95.

A few white and flesh colored Georgette and Chiffon Dresses made of materials of splendid quality. We have priced them to clear out at $5.00.

TWO LOTS OF GEORGETTE AND CREPE DE CHINE DRESSES IN UP TO DATE STYLES. FINE FOR WEDDINGS AND OTHER FORMAL OCCASIONS.

Were $15.00 Sale Price $11.50

Were $25.00 Sale Price $15.75

DRESS SKIRTS.

Here is another article that you will find serviceable at every season of the year that we are selling at a low price. Our entire stock of Sport and Plain Styles in a variety of patterns. 10 per cent Discount.

The sport styles were bought at a job price and marked on that basis and with this added reduction makes them very cheap.

SPECIAL LOT OF WAISTS.

Accumulated stock of Crepe de Chine, Georgette and Wash Silks. Were $4.75 to $9.00. Sale Price $1.95.

BARGAINS IN CHILDREN'S WEAR.

If you find that your children's clothes are badly in need of replacement right now in the middle of winter then come to our store during this sale and replace them at a moderate price. We have on special sale many items that will be of interest to you.

Children's Overalls and Rompers of the "Breadwinner" Brand. Were $1.50. Sale Price 95c.

Entire stock of Boy's Wash Suits in a variety of styles, not all sizes in any one style but there is a selection that will please you. You will find them greatly price-cut. Some as low as half.

Children's Gingham and Wash Dresses in sizes 2 to 6. These dresses are the kind that will please every mother and daughter.

75c, $1.25, $1.50. Many at about half price.

We have besides the above clothes for the children a number of broken lots in which you will find real money saving bargains. The sizes run in lots from 6 to 14. Many of them are marked at half price while the balance are marked from one-third to one-fourth off the regular low price.

BUNGALOW APRONS.

We have a stock of Bungalow Aprons and Cottage Dresses in dainty light and dark patterns made of percales and gingham that formerly sold from $1.25 to $1.95. Here is a serviceable article that is good for wear the whole year. 20 per cent discount.

SWEATERS.

We are offering our entire stock of Ladies' Fancy Sweaters at a reduction of 20 per cent which means a big saving to the buyer.

FURS.

We have cut the price on our stock of Furs. Chokers and shawl shape: one in various grades of Fur. Most of them were bought to sell this past season. Now marked at HALF PRICE and LESS.

SILK WAISTS.

We bought for fall selling quite a number of Silk Waists including the popular Embroidered Blouses and we are offering them at 20 per cent discount.

We do not have all sizes in any one style left but there is still a large assortment of styles.

Why Buy Oil Stock?

You can buy an interest in a lease and drilling well for $25.00, or 4 interests in 4 wells on separate leases for $100.00. All these leases are adjacent to or join producing wells. According to the law of averages in these fields, three out of four wells should be producers. Under this plan, a 20 barrel well will pay $9.50 per month on each $25 interest, or a 100 barrel well will pay $49.50 per month on each $25 interest. You will receive your proportionate share of money from the sale of oil regularly each month. Send your check to-day for one or more interests and if you are dissatisfied within ten days after receiving full particulars, I guarantee to return your money. Quick action is necessary, as the number of interests unsold is limited. Make all checks and inquiries to JOS. F. STEVENS, Trustee, 740 Land Title Building, Philadelphia, Pa. Adv. 4t.
